

Attitudes - Chapel

Chapel – Attitudes

1 – I've been very pleased with the attitudes of this team thus far.

- Valuing the team over individualism
- Making sacrifices rather than demands
- Expressed on the field, between teammates, with coaches and even in the media

2 – This reminds me of Philippians 2:3-4 (read the text aloud).

- Do nothing from selfishness or empty conceit.
 - o Don't draw attention to yourself – deflect praise to others.
 - o Don't take offense to trash talk or cheap shots – respect your team and the sport.
 - o Don't overestimate your importance – there are other players ready to step into your spot.

3 – With humility of mind regard others as more important than yourself.

- Encourage teammates as they excel – humbly recognize the value of others.
- Encourage teammates as they fail – recognize their value to the team.
- Respect your teammates and the coaching staff.

4 – Don't merely look to your own interests, but also for others.

- Rush to your teammates' aid in threatening situations.
- Guard your teammates from foolish penalties (loss of control or retaliation).
- Watch out for your teammates off the field of competition as well. We are a team every day, all day.

5 – Your attitudes, individually and collectively, will be tested today.

- By adversity
- By success
- By praise
- By foolish people
- Pass the tests by doing nothing from selfishness or empty conceit.
- Pass the test by humbly considering others as more important than yourself.
- Pass the test by looking to the interests of others and not simply your own.
