Respect

Showing respect to our opponents, teammates and coaches isn’t always easy, but it’s part of our calling as Christ-followers. Learn how respect on the field brings glory to God and blessings to you in return.

Bible Study

Respect

To experience the best in sport, proper respect must be demonstrated between teammates, coaches, opponents and the officials.

Devotional

Unconditional Respect

During a losing season or bad game, it’s easy to give up on each other. When a teammate breaks team rules, the question arises: Can we count on...

Devotional

What’s Your Favorite Sport?

Do you have a favorite sport? Maybe, maybe not, but regardless of the type of game we enjoy, our favorite aspect of any sport ought to be respect....

Devotional

Facing the Competition

Your opponents on the athletic field are worthy of your respect. They are not, however, worthy of fear! The work of God’s...
Devotional

Good Sport

In some ways it was an uncharacteristic win for Tiger Woods at the 2005 Masters. While entering the final 27 holes four shots behind Chris DiMarco,...

•

Devotional

Agree to Disagree

The 2003-04 college football season has ended. So who is the best team in the country? USC and LSU both ended the season with only one loss and...

•
Devotional

Game On

Rich and I are very competitive friends. We are like brothers in so many ways. We both love to serve and work hard at it. He is in the restaurant...

-

Bible Study

Mutual Respect

Wisdom for a Young Head Coach Week 10 I Timothy 5:1-16 Read the text aloud. Discussion Questions:

-

Bible Study

Respect

What do competitors regularly do that is a genuine expression of respect?

Devotional

Respect

How can we show proper respect for our teammates, coaches, opponents, and even the officials? Why should we even care about that? Peter understood...

Audio

My Story: Brian Pothier
Audio

Brian Pothier

NHL Defenseman Brian Pothier tells his story in the first FCA Hockey Podcast. Click Here to Download