

Glory on the Gridiron

This month, as college football bowl games flood your television, let yourself get sucked in. Just make sure you have read below or your STV is close by. You'll want to refer back to this article when you see a player score a touchdown and kneel in prayer. "Maybe he helps out with his FCA Huddle," you'll wonder.

If he's found below or inside the magazine, the answer is yes.

We are profiling the athletes who are owning leadership roles both on and off the field. They are actively involved in their FCA Huddles and chapels and are setting positive examples for young fans to follow. We'll start with Heisman-hopeful Sam Bradford, and he is just the beginning of this tremendous list of athletes.
