Set

One of my favorite childhood memories came on my eleventh birthday, March 15, 1972. I received a gift that would set me head and shoulders above everyone else in the neighborhood. It was something that would make me the envy of all my friends. I received the coolest bicycle in the world—a real “big boy” bike. I’m telling you, it was so shiny and bright. It had a white frame with a blue glitter banana seat, blue glitter handles and tassels. It did indeed make me the envy of all my friends. That bike made me the coolest kid in the neighborhood.

The coolest thing about that bike was its blue tires. I was the only kid in town who could lay blue streaks on the sidewalk. The other kids could only lay black. We’d all line up together, race down the sidewalk and then slam on our breaks to see who could leave the longest mark. Mine was always blue. If there was a blue streak on the sidewalk, you’d know I had been there. I had left my mark, and everybody knew whose it was.

As Christian coaches, God calls us to leave marks on the places that we’ve been. We are called to influence others for Christ. Whether it is at work, at home or around the neighborhood, God calls us to live a life that reaches out to others and glorifies Him. We are called to “leave our marks” on our athletes, and that mark needs to look as much like Christ as possible. So today, ask yourself, What kind of mark are you leaving?

Go

1. What opportunities do you have today to leave your mark?
2. What impact does it have on athletes and coaches when they see the mark that you have left behind?
3. Can you say that the mark you are leaving resembles Christ?

Overtime

Lord, help me to realize that pointing athletes and coaches to You is the highest calling that I have. Help me to see that the greatest goal I can reach is to make an eternal impact on the lives of those whom You have put in my path. Amen.
