Hockey Chat: There are so many terrible players that we skate with. They miss the open net. They bobble the pass that was right to them. They can't skate fast enough to make the play. And one more thing.....they are just like you and me. Give them a break when they goof and maybe they'll cut you some slack next time it's your man you should've been defending that scores or you shoot wide of the pipes. NOTE: The worst thing about wanting to be on a perfect team is that they will only take perfect players. Where would that leave you?

Life Lesson: Judging is easy to do and hard to take. We have the nerve to find the faults in our brother and then ask our Father to forgive ours. Forgiveness is a blessing that we've been given and that we can give others. Sure, they'll blow it some way and some how at some time.... and so will we. Can we give them the forgiveness that we ask for?
