

Reaction Game

- Form groups of 6-12 people
 - Have players create events and write them down on small sheets of paper. Be sure that they don't share these ideas aloud with anyone
 - Creativity is a MUST for this game :)
 - Here are some examples of events:
 1. Being attacked by a shark while you're fishing
 2. Hitting a home run that wins the World Series
 3. Winning the lottery
 4. Going on a first date
- After everyone is done writing, collect all of the papers and put them in a hat.
 - Within each group, choose 3-4 people to act for each round.
 - Players will randomly draw from the hat
 - Players will be given 30 seconds to 1 minute to act out a reaction to the event that they drew
 - Players can use "Charades" rules, but they may also make noises and talk to the other actors (without giving the scenario away)
 - After time is up, the other team members can guess at which event each person had.
 - You may keep score if you'd like, or just enjoy the entertainment!
